

A close-up photograph of a person's hands working on a dark, textured workbench. The person is holding a red wire with their right hand and a black wire with their left hand. A multimeter is connected to the wires, and its display is visible. A yellow-handled screwdriver and a red wire clip are also on the workbench. The text 'ver_rückt' is written in large white letters across the center of the image, and 'in der Arbeitswelt' is written in smaller white letters below it.
